Tie Your Waist

In the trend of low waist jeans, it is a must to ‘Tie Your Waist.’

In the trend of low waist jeans, it is a must, to tie your waist with different varieties of belts. In the name of fashion a great variety and a range of belts are available in the market. These belts can be bought from a road side hawker to the biggest fashion and designer labels. If one takes a stroll at these places then he/she will be surprised to see the demand of such belts. On this narrow, congested, traffic road (Hill road, Bandra) where on one side there are these huge malls with big names the other side there are these small hawkers giving them as much a run for their money. What attracts a person is the constant summoning by the vendors.

The minimum range starts from Rs. 25, for which you’ll get a very thin and simple Rexine belt (a perfect substitute for leather) to a maximum of Rs. 150 for the style conscious.

One can select different forms of it. There is also a mid Jute belt range which will cost around Rs.50. Besides the above many others made of cotton, studded with gems and metal work are also seen around. The prices are fixed as per the haggling capacities of the customer. One also has a choice between the sizes and the colours available.

“I am ready to pay a price between Rs. 100-150. It is more of an impulsive buying and I buy something that looks rich but is cheap in price” said Lizzann, (student) who was found shopping at the Hill road.

Boys don’t be disheartened as there are a few things for you as well. Foam leather belts (Rs.30 to 500) are known to be ‘in’ these days. They are sold on a highest range and are also in great demand. Jute, cotton, studded belts are of course always an option.

One also has a fixed as per the haggling capacities of the customer. Once a person is out shopping on the road, there is no escaping. ‘No one can have just one’, it is next to sure that you will end up buying at least more than one, as the only thing it tightens is your waist, giving your budget a breather.

- Dhara Salla
dhara.salla@gmail.com

Happiness in the Air!

Fashion like history, like music repeats itself. Whether it is the uncanny resemblance of the blonde bombshell with a familiar face from the 60’s or the return of the mac making feet at its evergreen beat all over again. Serena Menon takes a walk down history lanes and hysterical manes...

Over time, famous style statements have left a mark on the very impressionable canvas called vogue, from the Grunge to the Rock, to the hippy to the Pop, they came, they transformed and they left, only to come back. The evergreen look of the hippy still rules many a heart and wardrobe. A quick tip on how to transform into one in a jiffy!

1. Hip huggers, bell bottom jeans and wide leather belt.
2. Fringed jean bottoms.
3. Headbands and flower.
4. Bare feet.
5. Chappals – the cheap, jute ones!
6. Repeat – The obligatory peace symbol.

Happiness is forever! Carefree, wild and usually smoked up, if not in a trance. Not only did Zeenat Aman make an ever lasting statement in Bollywood, but also led a huge fan following to discover the freedom of hippies. Bandra, one of the popular ‘happening’ joints in Mumbai, is known for the little ‘happiness’ that is carried around proudly. ‘Dread locks and the grunge that never seem to go out of fashion, just the fact that no one needs to be reminded of what that look was all about, is proof’ says Olie, owner of a hair salon in the heart of Bandra.

“Happiness never died out or went out of fashion, it just kept going in fading and showing itself in shades of grey over time” smiles Olie, pointing out to his brother’s dread locked hair-do! True to its word, Bandra is one place where you won’t only see faces flaunting it but encouraging it for good!

Groovy Wardrobe Quick Reference

1. Hip huggers, bell bottom jeans and wide leather belt.
2. Fringed jean bottoms.
3. Headbands and flowers.
4. Bare feet.
5. Chappals – the cheap, jute ones!
6. Repeat – The obligatory peace symbol.

GROOVY WARDBROBE QUICK REFERENCE

APRIL 11 - APRIL 24, 2008

serenamenon@gmail.com

APRIL 11 - APRIL 24, 2008

Friday 7