

As I look at the reflection on the floor
Of the golden gleaming string
Of the beautiful Diwali lights in my balcony,
I make a promise to myself
That despite their absence in my room from the next day
I shall remember their brightness everyday
And continue to feel happy and content
Even when the darkness of other days
Tries to creep into my heart.

Minouti Naik
Assistant Professor, MET ICS